STATEMENT OF DIRECTORS' RESPONSIBILITIES

Irish company law requires the Directors to prepare financial statements for each financial period which give a true and fair view of the state of affairs of the Company and of the results of the Company for that period.

- Prepare the financial statements on the going concern basis, unless it is inappropriate to presume that the Company will continue in business.

The Directors are responsible for keeping proper books of account which disclose with reasonable accuracy, at any time, the financial position of the Company and to enable them to ensure that the financial statements are prepared in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards ("IFRS") as adopted by the EU and comply with the Irish Companies Act 2014 and the European Communities (Undertakings for Collective Investment in Transferable Securities) Regulations, 2011 (as amended) (the "UCITS Regulations") and the Central Bank UCITS Regulations. CORPORATE GOVERNANCE CODE (CONTINUED)

The Board of Directors has delegated this duty to SAMI.

SAMI is authorised and regulated by the Central Bank of Ireland and must comply with the rules imposed by the Central Bank of Ireland. SAMI also monitors and evaluates the external auditor's performance, qualifications and independence.

The Company has procedures in place to ensure all relevant books of accounts are properly maintained and are readily available, including production of annual and half-yearly financial statements. The statutory financial statements are required to be audited by the independent auditors who report annually to the Board on their findings. The Board evaluates and discusses significant accounting and reporting issues as the need arises.

Shareholders' meetings

The convening and conduct of shareholders' meetings are governed by the Articles of Association of the Company and the Companies Acts. Although the Directors may convene an extraordinary general meeting of the Company at any time, the Directors of the Company are required to convene a general meeting within eighteen months of incorporation and fifteen months of the previous annual general meeting thereafter. Shareholders representing not less than one-tenth of the paid up share capital of the Company may also request to convene a shareholders meeting.

Not less than twenty one days' notice of every annual general meeting and any meeting for the passing of a special resolution must be given to shareholders unless the auditors of the Company and all the shareholders entitled to attend and vote agree to shorter notice.

Two members present either in person or by proxy constitutes a quorum at a general meeting provided that the quorum for a general meeting convened to consider any alteration to the class rights of shares is two shareholders holding or representing by proxy at least one third of the issued shares of the relevant Funds or class.

Every holder of participating shares or subscriber shares present in person or by proxy who votes on a show of hands is entitled to one vote. On a poll, every holder of participating shares present in person or by proxy is entitled to one vote in respect of each share held by him and every holder of subscriber shares is entitled to one vote in respect of all subscriber shares held by him. The chairman of a general meeting of the Company, or at least two members present in person or by proxy, or any holder or holders of participating shares present in person or by proxy representing at least one-tenth of the shares in issue having the right to vote at such meeting, may demand a poll.

Shareholders may decide to sanction an ordinary resolution or special resolution at a shareholder's meeting. An ordinary resolution of the Company (or of the shareholders of a particular Funds or class) requires a simple majority vote cast by the shareholders voting in person or by proxy at the meeting at which the resolution is proposed. A special resolution of the Company (or of the shareholders of a particular Fund or class) requires a majority vote of not less than 75% of the shareholders present in person or by proxy and voting in general meeting in order to pass a special resolution including a resolution to amend the Articles of Association.

Composition and Operation of the Board

Unless otherwise determined by an ordinary resolution of the Company in a general meeting, the number of Directors may not be less than two. Currently the Board of Directors of the Company is composed of four Non-Executive Directors, being those listed on page 1 of these financial statements with Paul Dobbyn, Thomas Murray and Richard Aslett being Irish residents. None of the Company's Directors hold directorships with the Depositary. The business of the Company is managed by the Directors, who exercise all such powers of the Company as are not required by the Companies Acts or the Articles of Association to be exercised by the Company in a general meeting. A Director may, and the company secretary of the Company on the requisition of a Director will, at any time summon a meeting of Directors. Questions arising at any meeting of Directors are determined by a majority of votes. In the case of quality of votes, the chairman has a second or casting vote. The quorum necessary for the transaction of business at a meeting of the Directors is two.

All key management functions of the Company have been delegated to SAMI. SAMI will manage these in terms of their Programme of Activity and Business Plan. SAMI is approved by the Central Bank of Ireland, and is authorised as a UCITS Management Company and an Alternative Investment Fund Manager.

COVID-19

Since January 2020, global financial markets have experienced significant volatility resulting from the spread of a novel coronavirus known as COVID-19. The outbreak of COVID-19 has resulted in travel and border restrictions, quarantines, supply chain disruptions, lower consumer demand and general market uncertainty. The effects of COVID-19 have adversely affected the global economy, the economies of certain nations and individual issuers, all of which have undoubtedly had an impact on the performance of the Fund to varying degrees. COVID-19 has also resulted in employees of the Manager, the Investment Manager and service providers to the Fund to adjust working practices and work remotely for prolonged periods of time. However, massive government and central bank intervention has meant that markets are beginning to look past the pandemic. Provided the rollout of vaccines is successful on a global scale it is hoped the need for further lockdowns will reduce, enabling economies to normalise and function at pre-pandemic levels.

Approved by the Board of Directors on 23 August, 2022.

ECONOMIC & MARKET REVIEW

for the six months ended 30 June 2022

The first half of 2022 has been characterised by significant volatility, as the interlinked threats from inflation, geopolitical conflict, and economic slowdown have moved through markets, resulting in large losses across asset classes during the period. At the beginning of the year, concerns around the persistence of inflation were mounting, after the Federal Reserve led the way in casting aside the notion of transitory inflation in Q4, 2021. Then in late February, Russia invaded Ukraine, in a culmination of months, or rather years given the conflict since 2014, of growing tensions between the two countries. This was a massive exogenous shock to markets and has helped set the tone for the turbulent period since the invasion. Almost immediately energy prices skyrocketed, with crude oil reaching over $110 per barrel in early March.

In the second quarter, the fallout from the Russian-Ukraine conflict continued to manifest itself, with inflation the key barometer of this. Inflation was of course already on the up beforehand, which was largely attributable to the substantial stimulus packages provided by central banks during the pandemic, however this has been exacerbated by the conflict. Energy prices are a large contributor to this, but Ukrainian exports of soft commodities such as grain have also entirely dried up, putting pressure on global food supplies and prices. Western nations have implemented severe sanctions on Russia in response, including barring them from using their foreign reserves as well as banning or phasing out imports of Russian oil and gas. However, this goes both ways, and during the second quarter concerns have grown that Russia will cut off Continental Europe from energy supplies, where there is a heavy dependence on Russian sourced energy.

Central banks have responded by commencing or accelerating rate tightening cycles, led by the US Federal Reserve who have moved aggressively, with three hikes over the period seeing the Funds Rate going from 0.25% to 1.75%. While they are trying to bring down inflation, to the end of June it has not shown any signs of abating nor clearly peaking. This stoked fear in the market during the second quarter that a stagflation environment could be nearing, as economic growth has also started to falter. Whether central banks will overshoot, or on the flip side pause interest rate hikes too early, is a key debate in markets, with great attention being paid to changes in the Fed's rhetoric.

The result of all this has been great pain for equity markets in H1, 2022. In the first quarter the MSCI World Index was down -5.15%, which was the worst quarter since the beginning of the Covid-19 pandemic. However, the second quarter proved to be much more challenging, with the MSCI World Index down -16.19%, leaving the H1 2022 return at -20.51% for H1, 2022. Within equities there has been a clear move into value and away from growth style investing, as the uncertain environment has undone the catalysts that caused growth and technology names to pull clear during the pandemic and to the end of 2021.

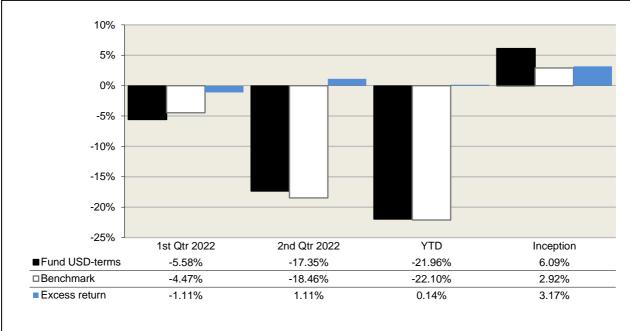

Global bond markets did not offer much respite from the attack on equities, with the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Index declining by -13.91% in H1, 2022. Despite the increased market risk and threat of conflict escalation, bonds failed to act as any material safeguard from more risky assets, because of the overarching inflation threat and subsequent rate hikes that have been a persistent headwind over the period.

CATALYST GLOBAL REAL ESTATE UCITS FUND

Investment Objective

The Catalyst Global Real Estate UCITS Fund ("the Fund") aims to generate positive income and capital returns over a medium to long term investment horizon.

Fund Performance

The Fund is bench marked against the FTSE EPRA/NAREIT Developed Rental Net Total Return Index. Note: Performance figures longer than 12 months are annualised. Figures are quoted gross of fees..

For the 6 months ended 30 June 2022 the Fund returned -21.96% in USD gross of fees while the FTSE EPRA NAREIT Developed Rental Index returned -22.10%, resulting in an outperformance of 0.14% before fees. The best performing listed real estate market was Singapore which recorded a total USD return of -5.44% for the period. Europe (ex UK) recorded the lowest total USD return of -37.12%. The best performing sector globally was Student Housing (0.88%). The worst performing sectors were Towers (-41.42%), Lab Space (-34.05%) and Apartments (-28.02%).

At a sector level our overweight allocations to NA Gaming Net Lease, NA Industrial and ASIA Developers contributed the most to positive outperformance for the period. Our underweight allocation to EUR Diversified, EUR Office and NA Hotels contributed to positive outperformance.

At a sector level our overweight allocation to ASIA Industrial, EUR Industrial, and ASIA Manufactured Housing contributed the most to negative performance over the period. Our underweight allocation to NA Net Lease, ASIA Malls and ASIA Diversified contributed to negative performance.

We currently see pricing of the real estate sector as fair to slightly cheap and better priced than local South African real estate. Despite the significant selloff year-to-date, our risk requirements have increased hence we are not seeing the outsized value one may expect following such a weak period. In terms of an impact to debt pricing and the effect on company cashflows in our valuations, swap curves have improved since mid-May when we made wholesale changes to debt pricing across our valuations. While there has been a derating on the back of rising rates, from a fundamentals perspective, the impact on earnings is expected to be less impactful. Furthermore, from an inflation perspective, many global REITS have strong pricing power and an ability to pass this on to their tenants. We would therefore expect the asset class to hold up during a period of high inflation.

Earnings are still expected to be decent as the multitude of sub-sectors individually have their own unique demand/supply drivers where many landlords maintain pricing power. Therefore, we would say that we are incrementally more positive, while remaining cautious.

In terms of reassessing supply and demand and adjusting our assumptions in our valuations, the industrial sector has been the only one where we have made material downgrades to our assumptions. This was off the back of Amazon's announcement that it had too much logistics capacity in its portfolio and would be looking to offload some of this through cancelling developments and sub-leasing existing space, as well as e-commerce penetration growth potentially slowing relative to our previous forecasts. After these adjustments were incorporated into our valuations, we saw approximately 10% less value for the sector. We however still see opportunities within the sector and particularly where the Fund is most positioned, those opportunities are highly attractive. More importantly, the market has discounted these stocks meaningfully based on Amazon's announcement, exerting downward pressure on prices that exceeded the reduction in our relative values following our assumption changes i.e. the selloff was excessive in our view and this combined with the high relative values we see has provided us with a buying opportunity to overweight specific industrial stocks even further. Interestingly enough, the influence of generalists in the market caused the most aggressive selloff in one of our key overweight industrial positions, which exhibits the lowest yield but highest growth. The fact that this stock out of the industrial universe is the most insulated to a slowdown in Amazon's activity, which therefore has not hindered their growth outlook, illustrates a lack of understanding by the general market on which we have been able to capitalise.

Further in terms of our positioning, our portfolio is constructed around where we see relative value based on riskadjusted returns, rather than trying to predict short term market sentiment and moves. Therefore, we did not make wholesale changes early on in the year when "value" was in favour. Likewise now, we will not be making wholesale tactical changes, unless our underlying assumptions change materially, which causes relative values to change significantly. Our portfolio is still skewed to higher quality names, with strong balance sheets, good quality assets, and highly rated management teams. We are invested in many sectors which have strong secular growth drivers, which we believe will hold up relatively well, even if general economic growth temporarily stalls. We believe this is now even more important than ever. We have used the sell-off to top up on names which we believe show good relative value and have strong underlying fundamentals. We have also used the opportunity to trim certain positions, which have held up due to corporate activity, and recycle that capital into opportunities where we believe there is significantly more upside. However, these are more on the margin, and we would not categorise the changes as material changes to the portfolio.

REITS' HISTORICAL PERFORMANCE DURING PERIODS OF INFLATION

Fund Outlook

At Catalyst we have a long-standing, robust investment process that has been tested over numerous market cycles and periods of dislocation. During times of heightened uncertainty, volatility, and weakness in the market our process is invaluable and tends to show its true mettle. As active, specialist listed real estate investors we are likewise fortunate to have an extensive opportunity set spanning a variety of sub-sectors and companies with unique underlying economic drivers. While these will not be entirely immune to the ebbs and flows of the broader economy and stock markets, it does provide us with the tools to construct portfolios for varying economic conditions to better enable the management of risk and return over the long-term. For investors with a similar long-term time horizon, the sector appears fairly valued with more attractively priced opportunities for astute active managers to generate superior risk-adjusted returns.

The portfolio is currently positioned with a forward FAD (Funds Available for Distribution) and required rate of return slightly below that of our calculated universe of global stocks. The portfolio's four-year growth is higher than that of our calculated universe. The portfolio's estimated sustainable growth rate is above that of the calculated universe.

Catalyst Fund Managers Global (Pty) Ltd

SANLAM ASIA PACIFIC ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE FUND

Investment Objective

The Sanlam Asia Pacific Artificial Intelligence Fund ("the Fund") aims to achieve capital appreciation.

The Fund does not have a benchmark or specific sector against which to compare performance. The Fund launched on 15th February 2022. Note: Performance figures longer than 12 months are annualised. Figures are quoted gross of investment management fees.

Since launch on 15th February 2022, the Fund has produced a performance of -7.81%.

Asia Pacific (including Japan) equity markets have had a challenging 6 months. Japanese equities declined over the period although given the turmoil elsewhere in the world in both bond and equity markets this outturn made Japan one of the better performing major markets in local terms in Q2. From a dollar investor's perspective, one of the key developments since the Fund launched was the weakness of the yen, which dropped below 130 against the USD for the first time in 20 years. This has provided a welcome boost for Japan's exports although growing fears of a global recession began to weigh on sentiment as the quarter progressed. Yen weakness is in large part a function of the BoJ's super-easy monetary policy stance which contrasts with the aggressive rate rises being implemented in the US, the UK and many other developed world economies, which are struggling to reduce inflation to acceptable levels.

While Japan was relatively resilient over the period, many Asian markets had a tough 2nd quarter. Worries about inflation, ongoing supply chain disruption (which have been aggravated by the war in Ukraine) and Covid lockdowns in China all weighed on sentiment. South Korea (-20.9% in USD) had a tough quarter with areas like financials and technology hit by global recession concerns. Taiwan (-19.8% in USD) also struggled amid fears that high inflation and ongoing issues in the supply chain could crimp demand for its technology products. The Philippines, Malaysia and Singapore also saw heavy falls in Q2, while Indonesia showed some relative resilience.

China had a poor start to the 2nd quarter of 2022 as its markets were buffeted by regulatory pressure on tech and consumer companies, the spectre of the delisting of some Chinese companies in the US, and ongoing worries about the impact of lockdowns in major Chinese cities. However, by the end of first half of 2022 the authorities had started to loosen the 'Zero Covid' stance a little, opening the door - albeit slowly - to some form of normality.

Outperformers over the period included JD.com and Baidu, each of which benefited from improving sentiment towards Chinese growth stocks as the market looked forward to Covid-related lockdowns beginning to ease. Toshiba outperformed as progress continued on its path towards corporate restructuring.

Outside of China, growth stocks still struggled as markets grappled with higher interest rate expectations and the implications of the invasion of Ukraine by Russia. In the portfolio, Naver and Xero suffered particularly. Advantest underperformed as cyclical concerns in the semiconductor sector weighed on returns.

Fund Outlook

We remain extremely positive on the long-term outlook for artificial intelligence in the Asia Pacific region. At a global level, Asia is the standout region where AI is already embedded in daily life and China in particular is an established world leader in many AI-related technologies. Moreover, the regulatory environment for AI in China and other Asian countries remains largely benign - this contrasts with the West where concerns over privacy and unintentional bias have curbed the adoption and usage of AI in some sectors. The US is trying to close the technological gap on China on AI but this will be difficult - for some technologies the ship has already sailed.

In the short term, we expect global equity markets to remain volatile as a recession of some kind has more or less become the consensus view - the debate in markets is about the severity of the downturn, rather than the actual probability of it occurring. In the West there are undeniable risks to earnings if the recession scenario plays out - equity valuations are attractive versus history but earnings downgrades have been thin on the ground. By contrast, China has already seen some large earnings downgrades (due to the various Covid lockdowns) and valuations remain very cheap given the potential growth on offer. This means that China in particular should be one of the more resilient equity markets if a global economic downturn begins to look inevitable.

5 Fair value of financial instruments

The following table shows financial instruments recognised at fair value. The fair value hierarchy shall have the following levels:

- Quoted prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities (Level 1);
- Inputs other than quoted prices included in Level 1 that are observable for the asset or liability, either directly (as prices) or indirectly (derived from prices) (Level 2); and
- Inputs for the asset or liability that are not based on observable market data (unobservable inputs) (Level 3).

The inputs or methodology used for valuing securities are not necessarily an indication of the risks associated with investing in those securities.

Financial assets and liabilities measured at fair value at 30 June 2022 and 31 December 2021

The following tables analyse within the fair value hierarchy the Company's financial assets and liabilities measured at fair value through profit or loss at 30 June 2022 and 31 December 2021:

Investments, whose values are based on quoted market prices in active markets, and therefore classified within Level 1, include listed equities. The Fund does not adjust the quoted price for these instruments nor does it apply a discount to securities where the volume traded in the market is low to the Fund's holding.

Financial instruments that trade in markets that are not considered to be active but are valued based on quoted market prices, dealer quotations or alternative pricing sources supported by observable inputs are classified within Level 2. As level 2 investments include positions that are not traded in active markets and/or are subject to transfer restrictions, valuations may be adjusted to reflect illiquidity and/or non-transferability, which are generally based on available market information.

Investments classified within Level 3 have significant unobservable inputs, as they trade infrequently.

Significant transfers between levels

Transfers between levels of the fair value hierarchy are deemed to have occurred at the end of the reporting period. There were no transfers between levels during the periods ended 30 June 2022 and 31 December 2021.

Financial assets and liabilities not measured at fair value

For all non-financial assets and liabilities at fair value through profit and loss, their carrying values are a reasonable approximation of fair value due to the immediate and short-term nature of these financial instruments.

9 Efficient portfolio management

The Company on behalf of a Fund may employ techniques and instruments relating to transferable securities, money market instruments and/or other financial instruments in which it invests for efficient portfolio management purposes. Use of such techniques and instruments should be in line with the best interests of Shareholders and will generally be made for one or more of the following reasons:

- (a) the reduction of risk;
- (b) the reduction of cost; or

(c) the generation of additional capital or income for the relevant Fund with an appropriate level of risk, taking into account the risk profile of the Fund and the risk diversification rules set out in the Central Bank Rules.

The Funds may engage in transactions in Financial Derivative Instruments ("FDIs") for the purposes of efficient portfolio management. FDIs may also be used by a Fund to meet its investment objective, for risk reduction and implementation of investment policies.

The Manager will look to ensure that the techniques and instruments used are economically appropriate in that they will be realised in a cost-effective way.

The Funds may enter into forward foreign currency contracts for efficient portfolio management purposes. Forward foreign currency exchange contracts are used to hedge against anticipated future changes in exchange rates which otherwise might either adversely affect the value of the Funds portfolio securities or adversely affect the price of securities which the Funds intend to purchase at a later date.

The Funds may also enter into futures contracts for efficient portfolio management purposes. The primary purpose for which the Funds might use futures contracts are cash equalisation, hedging and return enhancement. The purpose of cash equalisation is to expose uninvested cash within the Fund to equity market-like returns and ensure that the Funds liquid assets are utilised as though invested in the markets.

Interest rate swaps are used for hedging against adverse movements in interest rates.

for the six months ended 30 June 2022

By purchasing certain instruments, the Funds may more effectively achieve the desired portfolio characteristics that assists the Funds in meeting the investment objectives.

During the period the Funds did not enter into any securities lending, repurchase/reverse repurchase agreement, total return swap or any other transaction in scope of Regulation (EU) 2015/2365 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 25 November 2015 on transparency of securities financing transactions and of reuse and amending Regulation (EU) No 648/2012 (the "SFTR") for efficient portfolio management or any other purpose.

None of the Funds of the Company had any direct exposure to securities of companies domiciled in Russia as at the date of the invasion or subsequently.
